INTRODUCTION

The 1980 edition of THE DIRECTORY OF STATE AND COUNTY OFFICIALS is a vast improvement over the 1979 edition - our initial effort at using word processing equipment. New formating procedures from suggestions submitted by users of the DIRECTORY will enable us to present information in a more readable. Our new equipment allows us to maintain our "directory files" and make changes as they occur. Not only does this reduce the preparation time of directories, but allows us to cut the cost of production substantially. Using standard publishing procedures meant that the directory could not be available before April 1st of any year; however, we can now have it ready for distirbution usually by the middle of February.

In order to save time and further reduce costs, certain shortcuts have been taken in laying out information in the Directory. All mailing addresses for locations outside North Carolina are complete; addresses inside North Carolina will have the location and zipcode only - "North Carolina" is assumed to be the state and will not be shown. In the section on "County Government" only those locations different from the county seat will be listed - when no name appears the location is the county seat.

In the "North Carolina State Government" portion, all telephone numbers with only four (4) digits carry the "733" prefix; others are given in their entirety. When an asterisk (*) appears beside any number, or in the heading "telephone", "704" is the area code; all others are in the "919" area code exchange.

We invite suggestions as to how we may improve future directories. Please let us know about any information which is not included, but you feel should be, and we will examine the possibility of including it in future editions. While we try to catch all the errors, some will be found and we encourage you to let us know about them. We make every effort to have our data as current as possible, but the ever changing nature of government prevents this and we apologize for inconveniences.

We hope this 1980 DIRECTORY, and future directories will provide you -- the people of North Carolina -- with greater and easier access to your servants in the state and county governments of North Carolina.
